NEWARK POLICE DIVISION GENERAL ORDER

I. Purpose

An Early Warning System, (EWS) and Performance Monitoring program are important management tools designed to detect problematic patterns and trends in police conduct before that conduct escalates. An effective EW System can assist the Newark Police Division in identifying and remediating problematic officer conduct that poses a potential risk to the public, to the agency and to the officer. The EWS will serve to not only increase public safety and public confidence in the Police Division, but also will assist officers through early intervention.

The IAPro computer database program is designed to provide a systematic review of select activities, incidents, or allegations received or generated by an internal or external source. The intent of the EW System and Performance Monitoring program is to ensure that the Division is not faced with serious cases of misconduct which may be revealed from an escalating pattern of behavior that could have been abated through earlier intervention. The EW System will also identify supervisors whose subordinates have collectively exceeded certain threshold levels. These levels are set to ensure that supervisors are properly managing and guiding the personnel assigned to them. The EW System and Performance Monitoring program will apply to all Newark Police Division employees.

II. Policy

It is the Policy of the Newark Police Division to have the EW System/Performance Monitoring program administered by Office of Professional Standards, (OPS) and is designed to highlight patterns, practices or trends in performance, complaints, supervision, and other activities. An alert requiring supervisory review will be generated by the EW System when a Division employee or supervisor meets or exceeds established thresholds.

Professional Standards will be responsible for processing and monitoring all data pertinent to alerts from the EW System. Professional Standards will ensure that all alerts are processed in a timely manner and will monitor the process to ensure that all provisions of the General Order are followed.

It is the Commanding Officer's responsibility to ensure that members in the monitoring programs are adequately supervised and that all behavior is documented. However, it is the responsibility of all supervisory personnel to ensure members of the Division adhere to established and recognized standards of conduct and duty. Failure of supervisory personnel to ensure that the appropriate measures are followed can undermine the overall effectiveness of the monitoring program as well as the overall mission of the Police Division.
